

HELP YOURSELF

Mimosa Bar

Bubbles, juice and a little fruit: build your own.

- ♦ Pour juice a third of the way up a flute
- ♦ Top it up slowly with chilled sparkling wine
- ♦ Add fruit: a berry, an orange slice, a mint leaf
- ♦ Zero-proof? Top with sparkling water instead

Four Drinks for the Mimosa Bar

Three mimosas and a zero-proof sparkler, each built in the glass. Every card has a QR code to the full recipe with photos.

Grand Mimosa

CHAMPAGNE FLUTE · BUILT · SERVED UP

LIGHT

3 oz 90 ml brut Champagne
1½ oz 45 ml fresh orange juice
½ oz 15 ml Cognac-based orange liqueur

1. Pour half the chilled Champagne into a flute.
2. Add the orange juice and the orange liqueur.
3. Top slowly with the rest of the Champagne.

A Mimosa with a splash of Cognac-based orange liqueur to deepen the orange.

Garnish: strawberry on the rim

Blushing Mimosa

WHITE WINE GLASS · BUILT ·

SERVED UP LIGHT

3 oz 90 ml brut Champagne
2 oz 60 ml fresh orange juice
1 oz 30 ml pineapple juice
2 tsp 10 ml grenadine

1. Pour half the chilled Champagne into a glass.
2. Add the orange and pineapple juice, then the rest of the Champagne.
3. Drizzle in the grenadine and let it sink.

The grenadine goes in last and sinks through the drink: that is the blush.

Garnish: small pineapple wedge

HOW MUCH TO BUY

GUESTS	SPARKLING WINE, 750 ML	JUICE IN ALL
6	2 bottles	3 cups · 0.7 L
12	4 bottles	1½ quarts · 1.4 L
24	8 bottles	3 quarts · 2.8 L

Two mimosas a guest, each about 4 oz (120 ml) of wine and 2 oz (60 ml) of juice: a bottle for every three guests, a quart (1 L) of juice for every eight.

POURING TIPS

Chill everything the night before: the wine, the juices and, if there is room, the flutes.

Tilt the flute and pour the wine slowly, so it does not foam over. A gentle lift with a spoon mixes it; stirring hard flattens the bubbles.

Dry is best: a brut cava, Prosecco or Champagne balances sweet juice.
